MU Sport was established to provide the professional management of the fitness, sports and recreation facilities, programs and activities of the University and provide high-level policy, business and financial advice on the development and management of sport and recreation at the University.

B. History

Students have participated in sport and recreation activity since the formation of the University coming together to form clubs and teams to compete in weekly or regular community competitions with the first recorded contest a cricket match in 1857. The Boat Club was established in 1859.

Intervarsity competition against Sydney University commenced in 1870 in rowing and cricket and the University adopted the British practice of awarding sporting ‘Blues’ for outstanding sporting performance. In 1874, the land north of Tin Alley, the Sports Precinct, was provided to the University for recreational purposes, with the first Pavilion built in 1906. The Boat House was constructed on the Yarra River in 1908. The inaugural Director of Sport was appointed in 1904 to provide professional management of the sporting facilities and to support the sporting activities of students and clubs at the University.

The Sports and Physical Recreation Committee (SPRC) was established in 1904 as the governing body for sport at the University. The Sports Union, the forerunner to the Melbourne University Sport Association (MUSA), was established in the same year as a student organisation consisting of affiliated sporting clubs with representatives on the SPRC. The SPRC was replaced by the Board in 2009 with all members appointed by the University.

In 2016 the University Statutes and Regulations were revised, and this charter sets out the governance and management arrangements of MU Sport replacing the revoked regulations for semi-autonomous bodies.
